SPACE - PAST

Former beauty salon „Babette“ was built in the early 1960s as one of five shop buildings from designs by Josef Kaiser. While the other four buildings were similar structures, „Babette“ was architecturally assigned to Cafe Moskau.

The light-flooded ground floor was used as a showroom for cosmetic products and on the upper floor were five treatment rooms. The striking staircase connected the ground floor and the gallery part of „Babette“.

At one time the roof of Salon „Babette“ was decorated with illuminated advertising designed by Professor Wittkugel which was part of the unified Karl-Marx-Allee look. A very evident feature of the historical monument is the great glass front and the cubic structure of the building.

EVENT SPACE - FUTURE

In the future the space Madona (ground floor) will be a multifunctional room. Access is through the entrance at Karl-Marx-Allee equipped with a bar, access to the catering backstage and a stage.

Elva (upper floor) will be a small meeting-, workshop- or second event room which will be accessible through the staircase.

Both floors will be equipped with technical equipment suitable for events as well as functional furniture in the style of the 1960s.

The catering backstage area and barrier-free restroom will be on the ground floor while the regular restroom will be in the basement.

Salon Babette can be booked separately or together with Cafe Moskau. To access Salon Babette from Cafe Moskau the east entrance and the main entrance of Salon Babette at the Karl-Marx-Allee need to be used.
